Coos Crisis Resolution Center (est. 2003) serves 6 individuals who have a primary diagnosis of mental illness, and who are in psychiatric crisis but who do not need the medical capabilities of an acute care hospital.

The CCRC provides an important link in the continuity of care between hospitalization and exclusive reliance on outpatient mental health supports. It can serve as a less restrictive and more clinically appropriate treatment option.

Treatment is intended to keep the person safe, stabilize the person’s acute psychiatric symptoms, and return the person to their familiar living situation and treatment as soon as possible. Treatment usually entails a combination of Milieu Therapy, Psychotropic Medications, Solution Focused Brief Therapy, and Assertive Case Management, and Motivational Interviewing.

These services are provided 24 hours per day, 7 days per week by a dedicated staff whose goal is to support the recovery of individuals. Clinical oversight is provided by a Psychiatric Nurse Practitioner and a Mental Health Professional.

Services meet the residential, medical and behavioral health needs of each individual, while alleviating the burden on local law enforcement and hospital staff when crisis placement is more appropriate.

CCRC staff work in close collaboration with community partners to ensure appropriate admission, on-going case management, and discharge planning.

The CCRC program is located in a residential neighborhood and yet is situated almost directly across from Bay Area Hospital, and conveniently close to other community services. The program offers a very home-like and therapeutic environment. There are multiple common area for clients to either be more social, or “find their own space.” Clients can also enjoy the privacy of their own bedroom.

A large living room with fireplace, a central kitchen, and fenced backyard complete with covered deck are all available for client use.

Who is Served? The Coos Crisis Resolution Center welcomes referrals for individuals who are medically stable, do not require a higher level of care, and would benefit from:

- An immediate alternative to acute hospitalization in an emergency situation
- An early intervention option when they are showing signs of decompensation
- A “cooling off” place when home situations have become intolerable
- A step-down from a period of acute psychiatric hospitalization facilitating smoother community integration or and for hospital cost reduction
- A place to be closely monitored during medication changes or times of environmental flux.
- After-care subsequent to a suicide attempt or ideation.
